Biography:

Ms. Ruchika Sharma is a committed Nursing Tutor in the Department of Community Health Nursing at Akal College of Nursing. She completed her Bachelor of Science in Nursing (B.Sc. Nursing) from Akal College of Nursing, Eternal University (2015-2019) and pursued her Master of Science in Nursing (M.Sc. Nursing) from Atal Medical and Research University (2022-2024).

With 3.5 years of teaching experience, she has expertise in Anatomy and Physiology, Nutrition, Sociology, Obstetrics and Gynecology, Community Health Nursing, Advanced Nursing Practice, Psychology, Microbiology, Pharmacology, Pathology, and Fundamentals of Nursing. Her research interests focus on Nursing Education, Mental Health Nursing, and Community Health Issues, and she has published two peer-reviewed journal articles.

Ms. Sharma's academic excellence has been recognized through a Gold Medal for her B.Sc. Nursing batch (2015-2019) and a three-year scholarship during her undergraduate studies. She is actively involved in student and academic development, serving as the Journal Club In-Charge, B.Sc. Nursing 3rd Year Coordinator, and Community Health Nursing Lab In-Charge. She also coordinates Community Health Nursing 1 & 2 and leads the EU Club – Art for Social Change, fostering creativity and social impact through art.

Passionate about education and community service, she integrates innovative teaching methods and practical experiences to enhance student learning. Her dedication to research, student mentorship, and academic leadership makes her a valuable contributor to nursing education.
